For wisdom is a most beautiful thing, and Love is of the beautiful; and therefore Love is also a philosopher: or lover of wisdom, and being a lover of wisdom is in a mean between the wise and the ignorant. And of this too his birth is the cause; for his father is wealthy and wise, and his mother poor and foolish.

The Symposium is a philosophical text, by the Greek philosopher Plato, about love. What is his opinion about love? Where does it come from, what is it, and what is it for? The idea also comes "Platonic love", of course from Plato himself. According to Plato, the best way to love is to have something, to love wisdom.
